PRESS RELEASE

C.S. LEWIS EVENT TO EXPLORE FAITH, THE MEANING OF LIFE, AND NARNIA

Bishop of Liverpool James Jones describes it as one of Britain's best kept secrets. Norman Stone, producer and director of Shadowlands for BBC television, declares, "I don't know anywhere else where I have been so challenged and refreshed."

Both express the thoughts of thousands of past participants of the C. S. Lewis Oxbridge Summer Institute, a triennial gathering of scholars, artists, clergy, students, and Lewis enthusiasts organized by the C. S. Lewis Foundation.

Oxbridge 2008 will feature presentations by leading scholars addressing topics from the Arts to the Sciences, and from Philosophy to Literature. Included are performances of music, poetry, theatre and dance.

Not only for C.S. Lewis scholars and fans, "Oxbridge 2008: The Self and the Search for Meaning," is a place for all who are interested in exploring the meaning of life.

The conference will take place from 28 July — 8 August, with time divided equally between Oxford and Cambridge. Registrants may participate in either the full two week conference or the Oxford or Cambridge week only.

Of special interest is The Kilns, the Oxford house in which C.S. Lewis lived when he wrote his world famous Chronicles of Narnia. Participants of Oxbridge 2008 will have an opportunity to tour the home, which has been carefully restored by the Foundation and is now a Christian study centre.

The Kilns will be a 2008 recipient of the City of Oxford's Blue Plaque Award, designating the site as an historical landmark and commemorating the contribution of C.S. Lewis to literature and Christian thought.
